To view your active alerts, amend or unsubscribe from email alerts for newsletters there will be a new Email Notifications link in the top right corner:

On selecting it will display the active alerts you have selected:

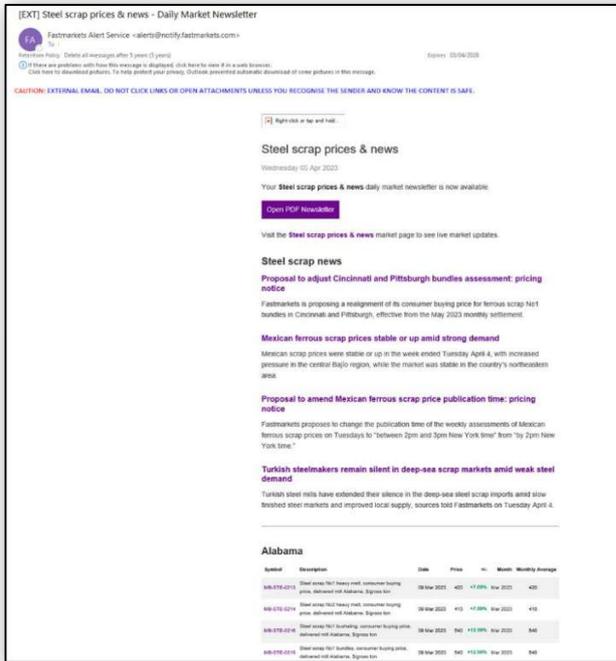

Changes to email alerts for Dashboard Newsletters

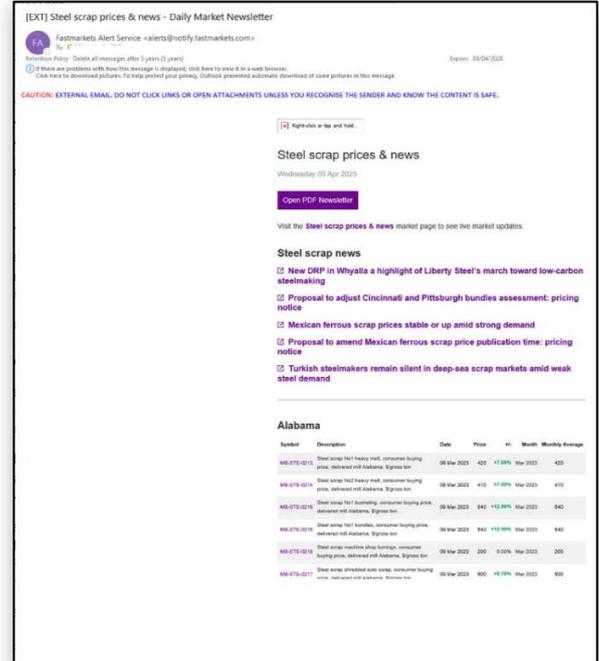

The Dashboard email alert for newsletters which contain news articles will have a new format for to provide a more compact view making them easier to scan for key content. This change is made based on customer feedback received that outside of Top Stories only the headline of the news article is required to decide which to read the article in full.

Top Stories will continue to display the headline and article summary, other news articles will display only the headline.

Changes to email alerts for Dashboard Newsletters

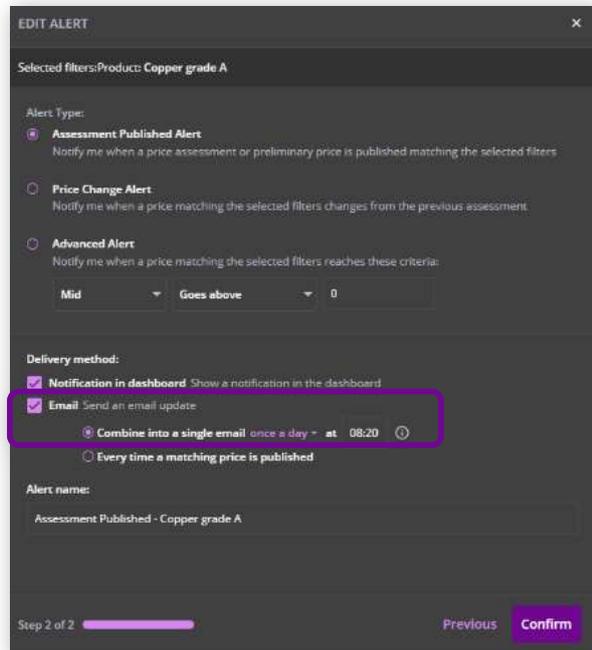

Preliminary prices are displayed with a [P] where available for prices on all the Dashboard widgets. In some markets, for example US scrap markets, Fastmarkets reserves the right to publish a preliminary price between published assessment prices. These are determined using a combination of bid and offer information and transaction data for related commodities or grades.

This release will include the addition of the preliminary price flag “[P]” to Single Price alerts and for Price Group Alerts when the option to receive them in a single email alert each day is selected.
